Our Vision:

Reclaiming the Parish

We believe the family is the basic unit of society and the parish is the basic unit of Catholic society. The needs of people, in terms of spiritual and temporal care, have not altered over the centuries although their surroundings, family, financial and cultural circumstances may have changed dramatically over the years.

Through the combination of the above organizations, we believe we can use modern technology (high tech), combined with the people (high touch) to replicate the ideals of Christian care at local levels throughout the UK and Ireland.

Using broadband and Internet we are delivering live services to those isolated and unable to leave their homes, those in permanent care in nursing homes and hospitals and maybe without chaplain visitation and regular mass on site in the case of nursing homes.

Stored content will be introduced into the service early in 2011 and will include mini-documentaries, educational pieces, historical notes, news items, interviews with interesting people and the saving of interesting live content (Mass, Weddings, Funerals, Novenas, Missions etc)

We are also about to launch and offer a service to unobtrusively monitor security, welfare and health of the elderly and ill parishioners through the same technology as that which delivers inward services from the parish (Set Top Box and Broadband). Text and/or email alerts to next of kin or nominated carers or health professionals will report any 'out of normal' routines. This will help replicate the personal services which were the norm in the past but using modern technology.

In these challenging times for church organisations and residential church-going members alike, good value, quality goods and services and ethical business principals based on Christian values are more important than ever. Church Resources uses the combined purchasing power of the Christian churches to leverage value and values to share with the Christian community. Membership is free to all Christians.
